

BELGIUM MERELY A PAWN IN EYES OF GERMANS

YANKEES HOLD ENEMY TROOPS

Defeat German Attempt to Hurl Back Their Forces Across Vesle River.

POILUS' GAIN IN PICARDY

Make Advance to Avre River North of Montdidier—Junction of Foe Armies Threatened Where Allies Gain.

London, Aug. 7.—Conditions on the battle front along the Vesle river between Soissons and Rheims remain unchanged, and relatively speaking there have been no developments of outstanding importance on the line running from the region of Montdidier toward the English channel. In both regions there is a tenseness which seems to forecast the approaching dawn of big events.

The bad weather—heavy rain-fall, the swollen river and the resultant wretched condition of the terrain with which the Allied troops along the Vesle now have to contend, not to mention the necessity of bringing up guns, ammunition and supplies which were left far behind in the rapid advance—doubtless is having more to do with the holding in leash of Marshal Foch's troops than the opposition the Germans are throwing in their way.

London, Aug. 7.—The situation on the Soissons-Rheims front has been stabilized while the opposing forces prepare for further movements.

Uneasiness along the northern front continues. Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria has carried out another withdrawal. He has now given up territory along the LaBasse canal in the apex of the Lys salient.

Heavy artillery duels and patrol actions are in progress along the Vesle. French and American troops in small units have crossed to the north of the river at various points, mostly on reconnoitering expeditions. The enemy has failed in attempts to prevent these incursions.

Americans at Fismes Shelled. Fismes, in the center of the line, which is held by the Americans, apparently is the special mark of the German gunners and they are bombarding it violently. The Americans, however, maintain their position and have even sent patrols across the river at this point.

In Allied capitals it is not believed

SENATOR W. H. KING

Urges Declaration of War on Turkey and Bulgaria.

Senator W. H. King of Utah called at the White House to urge upon President Wilson an immediate declaration of war on Bulgaria and Turkey. Senator King takes the stand that these two nations can be separated from their German alliance more quickly if they know that this country is ready to declare war upon them.

that the German crown prince will attempt to stand long on the northern bank of the Vesle but soon will retire to prepared positions north of the Aisne. The Vesle line is capable of being outflanked without much effort, and it would seem the part of wisdom for the enemy to withdraw behind the Aisne.

Americans Hold. Paris, Aug. 7.—North of the Vesle the Germans have been repulsed in efforts to dislodge French and American units from the south bank. The official statement from the war office also reports a French advance to the Avre, between Braches and Morisel, north of Montdidier.

German attacks north of the Vesle have failed to disturb the temporary stabilization of the Vesle front. The Allied command is retaining the initiative in these operations.

Much importance is attached to the operations north of Montdidier. These are pointed to as a direct menace to the junction point of the armies of General Von Hutier and Crown Prince Rupprecht.

Germans Making Stand, Heavy Artillery in Action

(By United Press)

By FRED S. FERGUSON, (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

With Americans Afield, Aug. 7.—German heavy artillery is in action for the first time since the boches were driven across the Ourcq. The firing is now the most violent since the enemy retreated from the Marne. This is the first indication that the Germans must have reached the line where the enemy intends making a stand. Some are probably firing from north of the Aisne but the main line of resistance seems to belong to the heights between the Aisne and the Vesle. The Americans near Arras are being shelled. Fismes is under heavy high explosive and gas attacks. Operations have slowed on account of the soggy ground following heavy rains and resultant caution.

Pershing Reports 871 Casualties

(By United Press) Washington, Aug. 7.—Eight hundred and seventy-one casualties have been reported. Today's list brought the total losses in the Franco-American drive to 2544.

(By United Press) Paris, Aug. 7.—The long range bombardment of Paris was resumed this morning.

Germany Intends to Keep All She Stole

Berne, Aug. 7.—Replying to questions from members of the right in the Reichstag Chancellor Hertlung said Germany intends to keep Belgium until the allies fulfill certain conditions including the payment of indemnities and the re-establishment of Germany and Austria as before the war, plus the advantage gained thru the Russian and Roumanian peace treaties.

Germany Will Have to Restore Stolen Goods

London, Aug. 7.—Lord Cecil told the house of commons that Germany's monstrous levies on occupied territories will be taken into account in the final peace negotiations. It has already levied $450,000,000 on Belgium.

FOCH IS NAMED FIELD MARSHAL

Noted French General Receives Promotion From Council of Ministers.

Paris, Aug. 7.—General Ferdinand Foch, commander-in-chief of the Allied forces on the western front, has been elevated to a marshal of France by the council of ministers.

The ministers also have conferred the military medal on General Petain, commander-in-chief of the French armies on the western front.

President Poincare presided at the meeting of the council.

In presenting the name of General Foch, Premier Clemenceau said:

At the hour when the enemy, by a formidable offensive on a front of 100 kilometers, counted on snatching the decision and imposing a German peace upon us, General Foch and his admirable troops vanquished him.

"Paris is not in danger, Soissons and Chateau Thierry have been reconquered and more than 200 villages have been delivered. Thirty-five thousand prisoners and 700 cannon have been captured and the enemy's high hopes have been crushed. The glorious Allies have thrown him from the banks of the Marne to the Aisne. Such are the results of the high command's strategy, superbly executed by incomparable commanders. The confidence placed by the republic and all the Allies in the conqueror of St. Gond, the Yser and the Somme has been fully justified."

The awarding of the "Medaille Militaire" to General Petain is a distinction rarely given to officers, the decoration being reserved for enlisted men. Marshal Joffre is one of the few officers who have received the honor.

German Flank Positions Under Artillery Fire

(By United Press)

Paris, Aug. 7.—German positions at the flanks of the Aisne Vesle line west of Rheims and east of Soissons are being subjected to an enfilading artillery fire it is learned this afternoon. Over half of the enemy's lines between the Vesle and the Aisne are also under a flanking fire.

By JOHN DEGRANDT (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, August 7.—Great activities are reported on both extreme wings of the Aisne Vesle front where the Germans have concentrated heavy forces to oppose any flanking movement by the allies. Heavy artillery is under way on the whole front. The occupation of Siry Salogne railway station, six miles east of Soissons has created an interesting situation in the region northwest of Braizne, where fairly strong forces of the allies are filtering in. In the Montdidier region the French reported the capture of the suburbs of Moreil, the most important town between Amiens and Montdidier. It is on the east bank of the Avre nine miles north of Montdidier.

Yankees Free Civilians.

With the American Army on the Vesle, Aug. 7.—The Americans who captured Fismes were members of the same organization that occupied Coulonges-Cohan and Dravigny during the advance north from the Marne. At Cohan all the civilians left behind in the French retreat last spring were found in the village church. They had been kept under guard there by the Germans, who occupied the village. All personal belongings of any value were taken from the civilians by the enemy.

The transportation of the wounded from the front is one of the most serious problems of the military authorities, and the most logical plan yet devised is via the light railway. It is constructed at very low cost and can be shifted at will as the tide of battle changes. Many of these railways are now being used.

Developing Your Efficiency

THE first step in the development of personal efficiency is to put away in a safe place a portion of your earnings.

You never saw any one who had developed a great deal of efficiency, who kept his income about him "in the coin of the realm."

It is most difficult to save money when its constant presence gives a constant temptation to spend.

A check drawn for every expenditure, leaving a permanent record of to whom, what for and how much—that is the efficient method of discharging obligations.

Paying in currency, thus leaving loopholes for disputes, is utterly deficient. It takes more time and costs more money to pay in this way.

German Newspapers Doping the Public

(By United Press)

London, Aug. 7.—German newspapers are continuing to dope the public regarding the western front defeat, some lying and others ignoring it, and playing up minor news. Simultaneously alarm is growing on account of the growing strength of the allies in Russia. Instead of commenting on the west front the Tageblatt refers to extended gains in Albania.

Additional reports regarding the submarine revolt at Wilhelmshaven state the sailors mutinied on account of the increased danger of submarine work. It is estimated that over fifty submarines have disappeared. Many have sunk or the sailors mutinied, seizing the first opportunity to get themselves interned in neutral harbors.

WOMAN'S REALM

SOLDIERS' SISTERS GO TO FRANCE

The following has been given out by the war department declaring that the ruling sisters of soldiers from going to France has been modified with heavy restrictions imposed. The story is as follows:

Because the American Red Cross, the Young Men's Christian Association and other allied bodies doing war work in France are unable to obtain a sufficient number of women workers, the order against granting passports to relatives of officers and men in the American expeditionary forces was modified today, July 30, by General March, chief of staff, so as to permit sisters of soldiers to serve as workers under certain conditions.

The order provides that the sisters must be duly accredited members of one of the authorized organizations, must be particularly qualified for the work to be done, must be sent to France as workers and not as relatives, must make no effort to visit relatives in France whether sick or well, must be returned home by the organization to which they belong, if they violate the rules as laid down by the department and must automatically be returned home if they marry officers or soldiers in the American expeditionary forces after their arrival abroad.

The KITCHEN CABINET

In this world it is not what we take up but what we give up that makes us rich.—H. W. Beecher.

HELPFUL REMINDERS.

Save any bits of left-over paraffin from jelly glasses, wash well, melt and strain and it will be ready for use another year.

Paraffin is fine to keep the irons smooth while ironing; it also keeps the kitchen range bright and good-looking, and should be used freely if a range stands unused any length of time.

When pouring anything very hot into a glass dish set the dish on a wet cloth. Kerosene is a great saver of scouring soap and labor. Use a cloth dampened with kerosene to wipe out the boiler after using. It will keep the sink free from grease with little rubbing.

It is seasonable just now to bear in mind that fruit picked after a heavy rain loses its flavor and is not good for making jelly.

Fruit for jelly making should not be too ripe, as the pectin is found in larger amount in unripe fruit; this is the thickening quality which gives to jelly its consistency.

Currants and raspberries in equal quantities make a delicious jelly. Jelly to be clear should drip through a jelly bag and never be squeezed.

The uncooked stems of mushrooms shredded and mixed with blanched and shredded almonds served on lettuce with French dressing, makes a most dainty salad. Little bits of left-over salmon mixed with coconut, fresh, or if dried, the sugar washed out of it with a chopped pickle or two, makes another not common salad.

Lettuce that has become too old for fresh use may be cooked and served as greens, making another vegetable dish and a palatable one, too.

Any of the cooked lettuce left over may be served with hard-cooked egg as a salad with a spoonful of boiled dressing.

Any green vegetable is of better color to serve if the kettle is left uncovered while cooking.

Save the meat and gather mushrooms now up to frost time. The large variety of edible ones will offer a change of flavor, yet if one is fond of them, they can be served in some way for each day. Do not risk picking mushrooms unless you are sure of the variety.

Drilling the tongue.

Upon all those who are ambitious to make the world happier and better rests the obligation of drilling the tongue into habits of kindness, purity and refinement. Not by spasmodic efforts nor with occasional hints and gleams of good cheer are men to use the tongue in the interests of happiness. To daily drill the tongue as an instrument of happiness is to enter into the fundamental conception of living.—Rev. Newell Dwight Hills

S. Signal Corps and Navy photographers and cameramen of the French general staff at home and abroad.

"Pershing's Crusaders" will be shown at the Best theatre for two days, starting Thursday.

REVERTED TO TYPE

Ferret's Night Off an Orgy of Slaughter.

Little Killer Left Thick Trail of Dead Which He Had Destroyed for the Pure Joy of Slaying, and Went Home.

His mother was a ferret, lean, yellow and pink eyed and a she devil to boot, says a writer in London Answers.

His father was worse, a wild polecat of the mountains, and a worse devil than ever.

But he, the cherub, was so soft and furry and fat and creamy, and though he had got pink eyes, there seemed to be nothing else of his mother and father about him. He never bit, he never spat, and he never used bad language, and he lived upon bread and milk, like a gentleman.

So he was till the spring broke.

It was their own fault, the ferrets. They took him out rabbiting, as usual. They put a collar with a bell on round his neck, as usual, and a long, long string on the collar, as usual, and they turned him into a rabbit warren, as usual. And he sneezed three times, as usual, and he walked decidedly down the first rabbit hole he came to, as usual, to turn out the rabbits from their burrows, as usual, that the sportsmen outside might shoot them as they bolted.

So far, until he got into the middle of the mazes of tunnels, the inky darknesses, and the stuffy heat, full of the smell of castor oil—don't know why, by the way—and he could hear the drumming of rabbits' feet fleeing before his ghostly, terrible self, everything happened as usual. Then nothing did.

He was pulled up with a jerk that nearly choked him. He tried going forward, but it was all no good. He had only a yard of play either way. His line was entangled in a root.

The hours passed, and the ferrets, after trying every device known to man to get him out, gave it up and went home. The cherub did not give it up. He worried slowly, and he chafed, he pulled, and he tugged, he backed, and he sweated, and he sneezed, and finally his collar came undone or broke.

The cherub sneezed three times, and walked three yards. Then he realized he was free. It was the first time in all his life he had been free, and it acted upon him. In that second his mother, plus his father, got to work in his own body, and he began.

It was really very clean killing. Fifteen rabbits done to death, each with a single, clean fang stroke behind the ears—was not so bad for one small ferret. But he improved, for he slew 20 in the next hour—leaving every carcass untouched where it lay—and getting thirsty, came above ground for water. The water he did not find, but discovered fowls in a fowlhouse instead, and, as I said, being thirsty, drank blood. There were no live fowls in that hen roost when he left. He visited the hutches of the Belgian hares, which he slew, and the pigeon cote, where he got more blood.

After that he returned a mile across country, killing three partridges on the way; drank at the dog's trough—biting the dog badly in the process—walked into his own hut and was found curled up, calmly asleep, among the hay next morning.

MISSIONARY WORK BY WOMEN NEEDED

MOTHERS OF THE DRAFTED MEN SHOULD BE MADE PROUD INSTEAD OF SORROWFUL.

ONE VOLUNTEER DOING THIS

Ohioan Asserts There Will Be No Industrial Cataclysm After the War, but Great Demand for All the Country's Products.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington.—While the government is sending out agents to encourage agriculture, and to teach women how to conserve foods and in other ways to help win the war, there is another field which women might enter to great advantage. There is an opportunity for some good missionary work by women who have sent their sons into the army, among those women whose sons have been drafted.

Information recently came to Washington regarding one community where all the women seemed to have constituted themselves a commiserating body and consoled with any woman whose son was called into the service. Into that community went a widow, and what she told those women was really worth while, although she was a volunteer and not in the service of the government. She pointed out that her boy, who was not twenty years old, had gone into the aviation service, which everybody recognizes is about the most dangerous work in the war. Then she told them how proud she was of it and read them a lecture upon the duty of women doing their share in this war and also how necessary it was to make the boys feel that their mothers were proud of them and to send them away with cheers rather than tears and lamentations. There are quite a number of communities in the country which need missionary work of this kind.

A good share of the worry belongs to those who are looking ahead and wondering what will happen when the war is over. But they would worry about the future even if there was no war. John J. Whitacre of Canton, O., who was for two terms a member of the house, and a business man of wide reputation, asserts that there is not going to be a cataclysm after the war but that there will be a great demand for everything that the United States produces. There will be no falling-off in industry, for although there will be little need of munitions compared with what is now being made, there will be an enormous demand for all other kinds of supplies, which will keep American mills and American workmen busy for years to come.

Senators are extremely sensitive at times about revealing sources from which they have learned something that either pleases or agitates them. In a recent speech Senator Sherman of Illinois remarked that he had "read in quotation marks from a source that is accessible to the general public, that the conditions which I have just criticized do exist." He referred to "the same authority" a few minutes later. Then Senator Thomas of Colorado said a few words, in which he mentioned the amount of money appropriated for the war. Senator Johnson of California questioned the figures, whereupon Thomas replied: "I make the statement upon the authority of the gentleman who made it to me, and I think, knowing him as I do, it is reliable."

Overwhelming courtesy to one another is an unwritten law of the senate. Even when a senator is transgressing a rule, as in the case of having petitions printed in the Congressional Record, any member who objects seems to feel it necessary to apologize profusely and humbly. Now Senator Ashurst of Arizona is one of the pleasantest and most considerate men in congress. Several senators utilized the Mondays and Thursdays on which congress meets to deliver speeches on various subjects. Ashurst considered this a violation of the agreement by which no business was to be transacted, and, by objecting, cut off one or two of these speeches. But he was not able to keep his heart sufficiently hardened to withstand the tactful and pitiful appeals of the talkers, and sooner or later withdrew his objection in each case.

A native Washingtonian is getting to be as hard to find here as a native New Yorker is said to be in that city. Washington has always been a more or less cosmopolitan city, in the way of the government clerks—and that means most of the population—were from the states; the diplomatic corps furnished its quota of foreigners; government contractors and would-be contractors established offices here and sent men on from their headquarters to take charge. Now, because of the tremendous war activity, thousands of extra government workers have been taken on; the diplomatic corps has been enlarged and foreign military and commercial missions established; and seekers after contracts are everywhere. So as government business has increased the number of "outlanders" has risen in proportion.

Her Mistake

By MILDRED WHITE

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

Dulcie sat apart and looked tearfully across the moonlit bay. Her heart was not in this impromptu merry-making.

A friend had called her up just as the sun went down, begging that she would persuade her brother Bob to drive her over to the park for a picnic lunch, with a moonlight sail on the lake to follow. Bob had been eagerly agreeable, and soon after their big car was safely parked near the monument Dulcie lost her brother's companionship, as he immediately attached himself to one of the girls.

Dulcie was glad that the laughing departure of the party for the lake ride left her in retrospective solitude. Walking beachward in little separate groups, they had not noticed her absence. All day long the girl had longed to be alone to think things out, to fight down the great barrier of pride which had caused her such useless misery.

Ronnie was going to war. That was the uppermost thought. Tomorrow he would be on his way to camp.

Of course it had not been Ronnie's fault that the two were obliged to play in the same club orchestra; they had merely been selected as the most skillful players. That the girl musician should be unusually attractive was not Ronnie's fault either; but in the evening darkness of the park with the tears still upon her cheeks, Dulcie's chin tilted defiantly; there was no reason why Ronnie should have devoted all his spare hours to practice, Dulcie's presence being unnecessary at these club rehearsals, she awaited her lover's return upon her own veranda; and her grievance grew. Had Ronnie not been hers to command, since the time he had carried her books from school? What right had a blonde violin girl to usurp that which was hers? Of course Dulcie would not deign to put this in so many words. Her attitude alone spoke her displeasure.

It was, therefore, a perplexed young man who, after one of those "waiting" evenings upon the veranda, was dismissed with coolness at an early hour. The final break came upon that night, when he, all unsuspecting of tragedy, walked to those same veranda steps with the violin girl at his side. The girl, as he raised his hat in departure, had smilingly asked him "to come around to the house for a moment, and she would give him that music."

Ronnie had gone; when he came back to Dulcie's veranda Dulcie had disappeared. It had taken some ingenuity upon her part to avoid him since that fateful time, but Dulcie had persisted. Twice, upon Ronald's accepted calling evening, her mother after a puzzled search of the house for her daughter, had been obliged to tell him that she was not at home.

Receiving no explanation or apology for his sweetheart's absence, Ronald remained away, while the rehearsals continued. As weeks passed they met occasionally upon the street. After one swift, questioning glance in the direction of Dulcie, apparently unconscious of his presence, the young man had squared his shoulders and passed on, a hurt look in the clear eyes. But now, like some great hand brushing aside the petty jealousy and heart-burnings of the past, came news of Ronald's going to war.

"Oh! he would be brave!" She choked a little at the thought. Could she let him go with no kind, encouraging word?

Dulcie sat up and looked at her wrist watch; already the choice was out of her hands. When Bob came for her it would be too late for hope of finding Ronnie. Early in the morning the troop train was leaving. Hopelessly she arose and made her way to Monument square, where the auto was parked. She had no wish to meet her friends again this night.

Like a tired child Dulcie crept into the back empty seat, drawing the dark robe over her body. Grief is wearying. With a loud, quivering sigh she closed her eyes and slept. Half dreamily she realized that her brother had slipped into the front seat, evidently having seen her sleeping; easily the car swung about and rolled down the broad avenue. Silently Dulcie lay and blinked at the stars. At last she spoke:

"Oh, Bob," murmured her saddened voice, "do you think it would be too late to go and find Ronnie? Of course it would be," she added hastily, "but"—her voice broke—"I do so want to bid him good-by."

For a moment there was no reply; then the car came to an abrupt standstill, while the driver stepped quickly over to the rear seat.

"Dulcie, as I'm alive," cried a dearly familiar voice, and Ronnie the soldier clasped his sweetheart in his arms. "I don't know how you got here," he went on joyously, "and I don't care, as long as the blessed fact remains." Afterward as they rode along together, Dulcie lifted her head from her lover's shoulder. "It was fate," she remarked positively, "your car being parked there beside ours, the same make and all. Even a girl in her responsible mind might have made the same mistake."

Ronnie did not answer. He raised his hand very tenderly and pressed Dulcie's head back against his shoulder.

What Is Nuxated Iron?

Physician Explains—Says Public Ought to Know What They Are Taking—Practical Advice on What to Do To Build Up Your Strength, Power and Endurance and Increase the Red Blood Corpuscles.

The fact that Nuxated Iron is today being used by over three million people annually and that so many physicians are prescribing it as a tonic, strength and blood builder in weak, nervous, run-down conditions has led to an investigation of its merits by designated physicians and others whose reports should be of great importance to the public generally. Among these is the statement made by Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and Westchester County Hospital, who says: "When one patient after another began asking my opinion of Nuxated Iron, I resolved to go thoroughly into the subject and find out for myself whether or not it possessed the real value claimed by its manufacturers and attested to by so many prominent people. This is exactly what I believe every honest, conscientious physician should do before prescribing or lending his endorsement to any product whatsoever. If an article is worthless we practitioners ought to be the first to know of it and if it is efficacious we are in duty bound to recommend it for the welfare of our patients. A study of the composition of the Nuxated Iron formula so impressed me with the therapeutic efficacy of the product that I immediately tested it in a number of obstinate cases. So quickly did it increase the strength, energy and endurance of the patients to whom it was administered that I became firmly convinced of its remarkable value as a tonic and blood builder. I have since taken it myself with excellent results. There are those who need just such a preparation as this but do not know what to take. Therefore I have urgently suggested the widespread publication of the sworn statement of the composition of its formula so that the public may know what they are taking. This complete formula is now to be found in newspapers throughout the country. It is composed principally of organic iron in the form of iron peptonate of a special specific standard and glycerophosphates which is one of the most costly tonic ingredients known. To the credit of the manufacturers it may be said that they use the most expensive form of iron peptonate, whereas by employing other makes they could have put the same quantity of actual iron in the tablets at less than one-fourth the cost and by using metallic iron they could have reduced the cost to less than one-twelfth, but by thus cheapening the product they would undoubtedly have impaired its therapeutic efficacy. In my opinion a careful examination of this formula by any physician or pharmacist should convince him that Nuxated Iron is to be placed among the very highest class and most strictly ethical preparations known to medical science. It exactly anything I have ever used for building up the system and increasing the red blood corpuscles thereby enriching and fortifying the blood against the ravages of disease."

RAISING TROOPS IN INDIA

Great Britain Will Soon Have Half Million More Men.

London, Aug. 7.—Half a million combatants are being raised in India this year, it was announced in the House of Commons by Edwin Samuel Montagu, the secretary for India. Numerous non-combatants likewise were being employed. The June figures, he added, reached the record of 50,000 and provinces from which previously few recruits or none at all had come were now supplying their quota.

ORDERS NEWSPAPERS CUT

Restrictions as to Size Made by War Board.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Regulations for the reduction of the size of newspapers have been announced by the pulp and paper section of the war industries board.

It is ruled that no newspapers shall be established during the period of the war and wasteful practices of circulation shall be cut to a minimum. The discontinuance of the return of unsold copies is made a mandatory policy.

Solons Subject to Draft.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Raising the draft age limits to 45 would necessitate the registration of several northwestern congressmen. Among them would be Congressmen Sydney Anderson, F. F. Ellsworth, Harold Knutson, Ernest Lundeen and Carl C. Vandyske of Minnesota. From North Dakota the new age limits would include John M. Baer and Patrick Norton. From South Dakota it would include Harry L. Gandy and Royal C. Johnson. Johnson is already in the army.

FOE CALLS YANKS "SATANS"

"Impudent Audacity" of American Soldiers Amazes Germans.

Amsterdam, Aug. 7.—"Satan" is the pet name for American soldiers among the men in the German army, according to Lieutenant Banks, an "official war correspondent."

In a letter to the Dusseldorf Nachrichten he tells of a skirmish between a German patrol with an American patrol, who by their "impudent audacity" had been giving the Germans much trouble. Both parties were hidden in shell craters, he says, and stalked each other for 19 hours, with the result, according to the story, that these wounded American "satans" were brought in. For their work their captors received iron crosses.

FIFTY WOMEN ARE ARRESTED

Attempt to Stage Suffrage Demonstration Broken Up.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Some 50 women attempting to stage a woman's party demonstration against delay in the Senate in action on the woman suffrage amendment were arrested by the police at Lafayette Square opposite the White House.

The women, many of whom participated in the banner carrying demonstrations before the White House several months ago, sought to carry out a speech-making program without permits from the police. The police appeared with patrol wagons just as Miss Blanche McPherson of New York was beginning the first speech.

EIGHT BILLIONS MORE THAN NEEDED

SO SAYS SENATOR SMOOT ABOUT THE REVENUE BILL THAT IS BEING PREPARED.

IS GETTING UP STATISTICS

Senator Lewis Points Out Ways in Which Germany Might Attack United States—Ralston's Third-Term Speech Took Well, Says Taggart.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington.—While members of the ways and means committee are talking about a revenue bill of eight billions, it is doubtful if a bill of that size will become a law. Members of the finance committee of the senate have their ideas about a revenue bill, and they express the opinion that such a measure will carry between five and six billions. While most of the members of the finance committee have left Washington during the congressional vacation, Senator Smoot of Utah is staying in Washington, getting up statistics for the use of the committee in relation to the new revenue bill. Mr. Smoot says that a revenue bill of five or six billions will be sufficient, as that will be at least one-third of the actual expenditures during the next year.

"Under no circumstances will it be possible to spend more than $15,000,000,000 a year for the war," is the assertion of Senator Smoot.

It is not likely that Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois would accept the title of calamity howler, although he has several times outlined dangers to the United States in speeches in the senate. His most recent utterances pointed out how Germany might attack the United States by way of Vladivostok and the Pacific ocean. "She will," said Lewis, alluding to Germany, "by way of Vladivostok assault us from the Pacific, or coming around and out of the Persian gulf into the Mediterranean, assault us from the Atlantic." Of course that premise that Germany would get control of everything in the East clear through to the Pacific, and that our allies would be powerless to help us in case she decided to use the Mediterranean as a base of attack.

On other occasions Senator Lewis has called attention to dangers which beset the United States from countries who are new our allies. Long before the present great war developed the world men of observation pointed out that peace would not last and it behooved the United States to prepare for war. Senator Lewis, Theodore Roosevelt, Gen. Leonard Wood and other men in and out of public life frequently sounded the alarm and made efforts to have the United States fit itself for war.

When Governor Ralston of Indiana made a speech to the Democratic state convention urging President Wilson for a third term it caused something of a shock, if not a sensation, among the administration's friends, most of whom feared that this was not an opportune time to discuss that delicate subject. But the suggestion seems to have taken very well, according to Thomas Taggart, formerly United States senator from Indiana and for a long time the Democratic leader of that state. Taggart while in Washington said very frankly that Governor Ralston's speech had taken well, and he went further and said that not only should Wilson be re-elected, but that Marshall should be named with him.

Would it not be an extraordinary thing if both a president and vice president were elected for three successive terms? But then, strange things happen in these days.

Senator Thomas of Colorado continues to harp upon the danger of slowing down in the production of war materials, particularly on account of strikes and other labor troubles. The Colorado senator believes that there should be prompt legislative action which would prevent the shutting down of any shops engaged in war industry work. It is easier to make the suggestion than to point out a practical method of legislating on this subject.

Congressman Meeker of Missouri has made an interesting compilation relating to war service in different countries. He has had it printed as a speech, and it is a document that is likely to have a wide circulation, as it gives in concise and yet complete terms information about citizenship and the relationship of aliens to countries in the war. The countries include nearly all of the civilized nations, with the exception of those with which the United States is at war.

Quite a number of famous clergymen have at one time or another offered the prayer with which each house of congress begins its daily session. Two of the most recent were Billy Sunday, while he was conducting his revival in Washington, and Cosmo Gordon Lang, archbishop of York, the principal dignitary of the Church of England. The latest addition to this distinguished list is Bishop Yoshikazu Hiraiwa of Japan, who opened one of the semi-weekly sessions of the senate.

Japanese Premier Tells Why Allied Troops Are in Siberia.

Former French Interior Minister Will Be Banished.

Count Terauchi Says Nation Must Be Prepared to Meet Any Emergency.

Tokio, Aug. 7.—In a public statement, Count Terauchi, premier, said the action in landing Allied and American troops in Siberia would, he hoped, mark the beginning of a new era of peace and order there.

If it should be necessary for the Allies to dispatch additional troops the country must be prepared to meet the emergency, he added.

The Japanese-American negotiations were made the basis of a recrudescence of wrangling over domestic politics, with sensational demands for the resignation of the cabinet. There seems reason to believe the tenseness of the situation has been relieved and that the plans for the protection of the Czechoslovaks and of the Allied interests against German and Austrian influence in Siberia will be carried out without excitement.

A Red Cross base hospital with a full equipment and complete staff already has been organized at Vladivostok and additional supplies, nurses and doctors are leaving weekly.

Washington, Aug. 7.—T. G. Masaryk, president of the Czechoslovak National council, and commander-in-chief of the forces operating under the council, presented a letter to President Wilson expressing deep satisfaction over the President's decision to help the Czechoslovak army in Russia.

It was in July, 1917, that his position was first assailed. At that time, M. Clemenceau, now French premier, charged that M. Malvy was spreading "Defeatist" propaganda among the troops, and M. Malvy's resignation of his post as minister of the interior was announced early in August.

The committee's "turn about" on the war profits tax means that Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo has won out in the first skirmish with Congress as to what will go into the bill.

PACIFIST MEMBERS LEARN A LESSON

CONGRESS WILL LOSE SOME OF THOSE WHO WERE OPPOSED TO OUR ENTERING WAR.

DIDN'T KNOW NATION'S MIND

Slayden of Texas One Victim of His Lack of Foresight—Senator King Declares the Sinn Feiners Cannot Frighten Him.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington.—Members of congress who were not foresighted enough to see what was going on in the world, not only before, but for a few months after April 6, 1917, are beginning to understand something about the thoughts that were then and have been since in the minds of the American people. It was stated about the time the United States was entering the war that 65 per cent of the membership of congress was opposed to war. A very large number of those said to be opposed to war smothered their convictions and voted for the war resolution when the time came. Others had the courage of their convictions and voted against war. Some of them went farther and opposed war measures, such as the selective draft and other bills which were considered necessary to carry on the war. These are the men who have learned what the American people thought about that time and what they have been thinking since.

The American people were shocked at the outrages committed in Belgium; they were shocked at the methods of Germany in every particular; they were especially horrified at the sinking of the Lusitania and the ruthless murder of innocent men, women and children on the high seas by the U-boats. The American people of national spirit were ready to go to war long before there was a war declaration, notwithstanding the anti-war vote in the fall elections in 1916. The members of congress that opposed this sentiment of the American people are finding that it is a great handicap to them when they go before their home constituents for re-election and re-election. Probably quite a lot of them will be dropped out on account of the anti-war convictions which they held at a very important crisis in American history.

One of the victims of the pacifist sentiment is James A. Slayden of Texas. He has been a member of congress for nearly 22 years, and during that time has served on the military committee and is now chairman of the committee on library. One of the able, honest and efficient members of congress, he has been afflicted with pacifist leanings. Even as a member of the military committee he was opposed to making the army larger and more efficient. He was one of the group of American congressmen who associated themselves with what was called "the Interparliamentary union," having for its object the settlement of all international disputes without resort to arms. One of Slayden's associates was Richard Bartholdt, for 20 years a member of congress from St. Louis. No one has questioned Slayden's loyalty, but he was among the anti-war men and is not the first nor the last victim of that sentiment, although it is probable that the attitude of Slayden in regard to the administration had something to do with his retirement.

At one of the semi-weekly sessions of the senate it was observed that 21 senators by actual count were present when the senate was called to order and the prayer was offered. "That is at least twice as many senators as we have ever had at the beginning of a session since I have been here," remarked Senator Johnson of California. "Here we are supposed to be in practical recess and yet we find senators more prompt at sessions where nothing of importance can be transacted than when there is the usual legislative business before us."

Senator King of Utah is not afraid to "start something." Several months ago he introduced and pushed through a resolution which caused an investigation of the German-American alliance and finally the disintegration of that body. Some weeks ago he objected to the printing of resolutions supposed to come from Sinn Fein sympathizers and which attacked England. "It has started those Sinn Feiners after me," remarked the Utah senator, "but they have not scared me in the least and they will find that I am going to fight back. I do not believe that this is a time to permit attacks upon any of our allies in this great war."

It is a good thing for the nation's bank roll that the government doesn't pay the laundry bills of its lawmakers in house and senate. When a senator or representative takes the floor these sweltering days and talks for no matter how short a period he is apt to need fresh linen when he sits down. Perhaps the hot weather has had even more of a restraining influence on eloquence than the recess agreement. In spite of the heat, however, there are some senators who erupt to the accompaniment of rather strenuous stamping and arm-swinging. When those senators finish talking their shirts and collars are as limp as the German peace offers.

FIGHTS PRISONER EXCHANGE

German Paper Says America Would Reap Most Benefit.

Amsterdam, Aug. 7.—Discussing the proposed exchange of American and German war prisoners, the Nachrichten of Hamburg advises the German government to reject all such overtures on the following grounds:

"First, the Americans, by this agreement, would enjoy exceptional treatment which besides being unfair to the other prisoners would enormously facilitate recruiting in America.

"Second, assuming that the Americans have taken fewer prisoners than the Germans it would be natural for the Allies of America to make up the requisite number of prisoners, which would indirectly enhance America's reputed achievements." This, the article says should be prevented."

Do Something Better Than the Other Fellow--- and ADVERTISE

Advertising cannot accomplish the impossible any more than barren ground can yield rich crop.

But how advertising does make things hum when the product and proposition are right, the men and methods above board, when there's an honest purpose and earnest effort from bundle boy to general manager to serve efficiency, to deal honestly, to sell good goods, to price fairly.

Oil up the machinery of your business, imbue your organization with the spirit of true service, make your business worthy of the good will, the confidence, the patronage of the people.

In this fertile field then sow the seed of advertising and it will bring forth abundant crops in increased business and augmented prestige.

Your store news in the Dispatch will be read in practically every home in Brainerd and vicinity every evening.

REPORT OF JULY SHIPMENT MADE

Largest in the History of Brainerd Chapter Jurisdiction of the Red Cross

18 LARGE PACKING CASES

Two Full Dray Loads—Marking, Labeling, Listing, Packing, Invoicing was Some Task

The report of the July shipment of the Brainerd Chapter, American Red Cross, submitted to the Board of Directors at its recent meeting, was a most gratifying one and every man, woman and child engaged in the work in Crow Wing county, each branch and auxiliary, may feel a personal and individual pride in the same.

It was the largest shipment in the history of the Brainerd chapter and the allotment given this county, while recognized as a heavy one and some doubts existing early in the month as to the ability of the workers to meet the same, was filled and the full quota of completed articles sent in.

The shipment consisted of 18 large packing cases, two full dray loads and afforded a splendid example of work well done, when they were hauled to the shipping station. A number of local business men visited the packing rooms during the day and their eyes were opened to the magnitude of the work being carried on by the ladies of this city and of the cities and towns in the county making up the Brainerd chapter.

Much hard, wearisome work was necessary to make this shipment possible, work that women in many cases should not be called upon to do, such as moving heavy boxes, marking and labeling the same, sorting materials and completed articles, listing, packing and invoicing them and all the little details entering into the systematic handling of a most important work in the interests of the nation and "the boys over there."

Interesting Features

There were 41,444 pieces of surgical dressings alone, 850 pairs of hand knit socks of which the Junior Red Cross members furnished 48 and Brainerd 348 pairs and 640 completed articles in the military and foreign relief section of the shipment.

The following figures showing the different departments and shipments of each are interesting:

HEARS THE BIG GUNS

A. A. Mackay with Canadian Engineers Now in Camp at Seaford, Sussex, England

In a letter to R. W. Seelye, A. A. Mackay formerly of this city and Ironton, who enlisted in the Canadian Engineers, writes of camp experiences at Seaford, Sussex, England.

"It is sunny England, but raining pitchforks. I am under canvas. At least the rain is not blowing in. It is dropping straight down.

"In spite of this everyone is happy. We were out on a route march this morning. Everyone wet, but happy. Boys all singing as though it was a rare day in June.

"We are within sound of the big guns in France.

"Do you remember the good old brush beds we used to make when out in the bush in northern Ontario? Well, we have the same kind of beds now, except we have no brush."

Capt. Mackay's letter breathes strength and optimism and says the boys will give the Germans a hot reception when they meet them.

BRAINERD DISPATCH GETS BOYS THANKS

Tobacco Fund of Dispatch Discontinued in May Still Yields Daily Dividends

SOLDIERS WERE MADE HAPPY

Co. C, 110th Engineers, American Expeditionary Force, Supplied with Dispatch Tobacco

The Brainerd Dispatch Tobacco Fund, collected in the county and transmitted to the American Tobacco Co. New York, which was discontinued in May because the government took over the entire product of the factory; continues to yield dividends to Brainerd and other contributors in the shape of happy letters from the boys in France who certainly appreciated the smokes.

Corporal Arthur W. Harwood, date June 28, writes the Dispatch that the whole of Co. C, 110th Engineers, A. E. F. were supplied with tobacco kits from the Brainerd Dispatch. He writes:

"Please accept my thanks for that package of tobacco. It is the first issue of good old U. S. A. tobacco we have had. All the boys in the company received some. It would have done you good to see the smiles break out on their faces.

"We acted like a bunch of school kids let out for a half holiday. I am sorry I can't tell you any of our experiences, about the worst one we have had though is having to use English tobacco.

"Our appreciation and thanks cannot be set down in words."

By some mischance, writes the Corporal, there was no card in his box, and so he wrote directly to the Dispatch.

Dozens of Brainerd people have received additional cards. One suggestion, write to the men. Many of them want some one to correspond with them. Write a few lines to the boys. They will be glad to get home letters.

man Schrader, gross amount $14,911.63, chapter's percentage, $3,727.80.

Return of material and proper credit memos received amounting to $227.47 and credit memo for overcharge on applicators of $224.77.

Notice from headquarters that use of knitting machines to make socks is not favored.

Bank balance of $806.22 August 1, same harmonizes with treasurer's account.

Transfer of $1600, from monthly pledge account for months of July and August.

Transfer of $100 banked as War Fund expense account receipts from parade night dancing party.

Receipt of financial report of Junior Red Cross auxiliaries of the county as required by headquarters Northern Division.

Order placed for six additional packing boxes for use of packing committee.

Application from Davenport school district for authority to form an auxiliary with 13 annual memberships and $12 to cover same.

Receipt of 50 cents from Mrs. Withington for flowers, soldier dinner.

Respectfully,

FRED T. LINCOLN,

Secretary.

The chair announced the appointment of Mrs. Clifford Morrel as superintendent of the inspection committee of the Junior Red Cross and the recent establishment of a thrifty auxiliary in the Davenport school district, where an enthusiastic patriotic meeting was held and Red Cross work thoroughly discussed.

Bills amounting to over $2,000 were audited and ordered paid. The chapter will have an interesting announcement to make in the near future and one which should gratify every Red Cross worker in the city and county.

QUIET, PEACEFUL, DESERTED TOWN

Stores Closed on Merchants-Clerks Picnic Day Makes Brainerd Slow Town

PICNICS HELD EVERYWHERE

Once in a While Lone Farmer or a Stranger Objected When He Could do no Trading

Goldsmith's deserted village wasn't a marker for things in Brainerd today, for the annual picnic of the merchants and clerks gave Brainerd a peaceful quiet look with nothing doing at all and occasionally a farmer or stranger who did not read the papers vainly tried to open the front door of a grocery store to do some trading and then desisted when told about the celebration.

Every merchant and clerk who boasted an automobile hid himself and family to a lake.

Some few went to Little Falls where the merchants and clerks are also holding their annual picnic. Many went to Mille Lacs lake.

Banks of the city closed at 1 p. m. City hall offices closed and many employees shot at the Brainerd Rifle club range.

There was no set program in Brainerd and everyone picnicked in the place he figured was most congenial.

WITH ASHES OF HUSBAND

Mrs. S. L. Bean Brings Them from Los Angeles, Cal. for Interment at Brainerd

Mrs. S. L. Bean arrived today from the Twin Cities and Los Angeles, Cal., bearing the ashes of her husband which will be interred in Brainerd. The late Mr. Bean passed away at Los Angeles where he had been superintendent of motive power and machinery for the Southern Pacific railway. In former years he had lived in Brainerd where he was superintendent of the Northern Pacific railway shops.

STATE TO HARVEST NEGLECTED FIELD

Corporal George A. Kennedy, of Duluth, field agent of the State Food Administration, was in the city on his way to Aitkin county where a neglected wheat field of 36 acres is to be harvested by the state.

The farmer owner of the field and wife are in the throes of a divorce suit and while the litigation was being threshed out, no one paid any attention to the ripening grain. The state cannot afford to lose any wheat while a matrimonial knot is being untangled and will place a binder in the field and save the crop.

ENJOYED THE TRIP

Quinn Parker Writes Sea was Smooth and Not a Trace of Seasickness Apparent

In a letter dated July Quinn Parker writes to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Parker, from somewhere on the Atlantic that he is feeling fine and dandy. The censor was liberal with ink on Quinn's letter and whenever he started to say something, a splash of ink fixed it.

He was able to assert the weather was fine. "There has been no trace of seasickness yet on account of the smoothness of the sea and I have had my first experience of sleeping in a hammock and like it first rate," he writes.

Quinn's letter from the ocean followed the card that he had arrived safely in France.

NO BLAME ON HOTEL

Case of Card Playing in Court was Game of Men, No Connection Whatever with Hotel

The recent court cases of men charged with gambling at the National hotel did not concern the hotel and any impression which may have been created that the National hotel management countenanced any card playing is erroneous.

The players were transient roomers at the hotel who were squatted on the bed playing cards and were observed by Officer Scott who broke up their private game.

Austrian Paper Fears Defeat.

Washington, Aug. 7.—That man power will be the determining factor in the war and that numerical superiority of the Allies is increasing daily are two admissions publicly made in Austria which have caused great despondency throughout the empire, according to advices reaching Washington through official channels. The admissions are made in the Arbeiter Zeitung, Vienna, which says the French and Allied victory on the west front produced a profound impression among the people.

WRITES FROM CAMP

Leslie Betts is now Stationed at Camp Simms, League Island, Pennsylvania

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Wm. Betts, her son Leslie, writes of experiences at Camp Simms, League Island, Pennsylvania. He arrived there on July 23. Traveling on the Pennsylvania line they saw large cities, mountains, smelters, etc. People cheered the troop train all along the line. The train of twelve coaches carried 503 men.

The naval men were stationed at Camp Simms on the banks of the Delaware river. Freighters, boats, hydroplanes, etc., are all around them. The camp is ninety miles from New York. Leslie had not seen a single Brainerd boy.

On July 24 the boys were due to leave for France. The Red Cross on the boys trip to the east, met the recruits and passed out sandwiches, gum, post cards, cigarettes and candy. Every whistle in Pittsburgh blew when the train passed through.

TRIBUTE TO THE DRAFT BOARDS

It is a fine and well-deserved tribute that Provost Marshal Crowder pays to the devoted and unremunerated services of the draft board all over the country. In the rush of war and military news generally, an incident of interest and importance has failed to receive the attention it deserves.

It was stated, with due appreciation, that General Crowder had declined to accept the military advancement Congress proposed in recognition of his signal services in carrying out the provisions of the selective draft act, but that was as far as the public, as a rule, was informed.

The fact is that General Crowder entered something more than a modest disclaimer. He took a position of justice, fairness and self-abnegation rare in public life and entitling him to praise as well deserved as the encomiums on his military service.

Briefly he said the great credit for the marvelous work in getting under arms the vast army of the United States was due the local draft boards of the nation, whose loyal, devoted and unpaid services could not be told in words of too high praise.

He refused to accept an advancement as a reward that could not equally be bestowed upon the patriotic citizens who compose these draft boards.

Forty-eight states and three territorial headquarters and nearly 6,000 local and district boards, with an aggregate membership of nearly 18,000 citizens, assisted by legal and medical advisory boards in every jurisdiction, have cooperated with the national headquarters.

More than ten and a half million citizens were registered and classified for military service. 1,600,000 men were entrained and are now serving with the colors. By August 1 of this year the number will be over 2,000,000, and by the close of the year, if expected requisitions are received, the aggregate will approach 3,000,000.

A farewell party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson in honor of Clifford Jackson and George Howard last Thursday. The latter leaves Friday to join the navy.

The son of Sheriff Boeckenoogen of Aitkin, well known in Brainerd, was killed in action in France. Young Boeckenoogen was in high school when he enlisted in the heavy artillery. He met death bravely on July 25th.

COOPERATION VS WHITE PLAGUE

Dr. Herbert Gammons, Associate Medical Director of State Advisory Commission

WRITES OF TUBERCULOSIS

The Fight Against the Disease will Never be Won without Help of the People

(By Dr. Herbert Gammons, of Crow Wing-Aitkin County Sanatorium)

The fight against consumption or tuberculosis will never be won without the help of the people themselves.

As a rule the layman is years behind the medical profession in their ideas of disease. Such is the case with their ideas of consumption or tuberculosis which is early consumption.

Many people feel that a person has not got tuberculosis unless they are as thin as a rail or coughing up large amounts of pus from their lungs or having drenching night sweats.

When a person has these symptoms they have so much disease that the case is almost hopeless unless they get medical attention at once and then they will never be absolutely well.

When a person gets the disease early before ulceration takes place and before they leave scattered the disease all through the lungs it is possible for most every case to become practically well by following out the rest, fresh air and plenty of food program.

The symptoms which a person has in the early stages are as follows: 1st, tired feeling especially in the early morning and in the afternoon, 2nd, nervousness, 3rd, indigestion, 4th slight loss of appetite, weight and strength, 5th, slight cough or clearing of throat in the morning, 6th, pain anywhere under the ribs; 7th, palpitation of rapid pulse, 8th, fever in the afternoon (slight), 9th, slight sweating when asleep, 10th, spitting blood.

All tuberculous people will not have all of these symptoms but will have some of them.

Every person should have an examination once or twice a year and especially those in contact with or those who have been in contact with consumptives.

The State of Minnesota with its efficient state and county administrations are doing great work against the Great White Plague but the greatest results can be accomplished only by co-operation of the people with the medical profession.

The Deerwood sanatorium will soon be ready for patients and dispensaries will be opened for free examination of suspected cases and it is hoped that the people will learn what constitutes their part in the work, and act accordingly.

From a Justice of the Peace

W. H. Hill, J. P., Detroit, Tex., writes: "I used Foley Kidney Pills and say unhesitatingly that of all I have used they are the best and have done the work where the rest failed." Backache, rheumatic pains, sore muscles, stiff joints and too frequent bladder action are symptoms of kidney trouble. H. P. Dunn, druggist. mwf Catarrhal Deafness Cannot be Cured. by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound of imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

HOG CHOLERA CAUSED BY VERY SMALL GERM

Dangerous Factor in Spreading Disease Is Sick Animal.

Illment Cannot Always Be Diagnosed With Absolute Certainty, as Symptoms Are Not Uniform—Prevention Is Best.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The real cause of hog cholera is a very small germ found in the blood or urine. It may be said that anything which tends to lower the health of the animal, such as improper feeding, insanitary conditions of hog lots, damp or cold sleeping places and dirty drinking and feeding troughs may be regarded as an indirect cause.

Since the disease can only be started by the introduction of the germ into the herd and the organism is always present in the bodies of sick hogs and is thrown off in the feces and urine, the most dangerous factor in spreading the disease is the sick animal.

It may get into the herd by sick hogs escaping from a neighboring herd, by the purchase of new stock not showing symptoms, by returning show hogs after visits to fairs or stockyards, and by the purchase of hogs which apparently have recovered.

The symptoms are not constant and uniform, therefore the disease cannot always be diagnosed with absolute certainty. Animals suffering from intestinal troubles, indigestion and poisoning exhibit symptoms which closely resemble those of cholera.

In the early stages hogs huddle together; have temperatures (105 to 107 degrees F. or higher); are constipated; the feces often streaked with blood; a characteristic odor is present; and after the third or fourth day diarrhea develops. As death approaches there is usually a reddening of the skin on the under surfaces of the body, snout and ears. This turns into a purple color if death is delayed a day or two. There is a discharge of mucus from the eyes. Coughing may or may not be present. In chronic cases there is emaciation and patient may linger for days and weeks.

Prevention is the better treatment. Separate sick animals from the herd at once. Vaccinate the apparently healthy hogs with antihog-cholera serum. This serum only protects the hogs against cholera. It is a preventive and in no wise a cure. It is advisable to take the temperature of the hogs. This should not be more than 104 degrees F.

Burn or bury the carcasses of hogs that have died with the disease, disinfect all pens and yards after an outbreak of cholera. Burn all manure, litter and straw, then apply a coat of coal tar. Pens should be situated so that they can be properly drained and cleaned.

Proper feeding, plenty of exercise, clean pens and an abundance of sunshine will do a great deal toward protecting hogs from cholera.

Put the Bull to Work.

By means of a tread mill the bull can be made to furnish power for running the cream separator, the feed grinder, washing machine, the pump, etc. This exercise will do him good and tend to keep his disposition better.

TO DECLARE WAR ON JAPAN

Bolshevik Government Is Considering Such a Step.

London, Aug. 7.—It is reported from Moscow, by way of Berlin, that the Bolshevik government in Russia is considering a declaration of war against Japan, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen.

Premier Lenin, the message adds, has up to this time been opposed to such action, but it is believed that Russia "will be compelled to declare war, notwithstanding the fact that the people are opposed to any new war."

MAY RETREAT NEAR BORDER

Berlin Newspaper Hints at Possibility of Retirement.

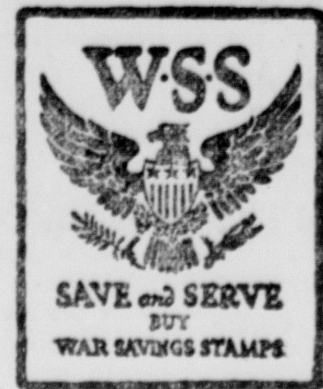

The Hague, Aug. 7.—The Berlin Vossische Zeitung, in a pessimistic article, hints at the possibility of a German retreat to the line of the Meuse, according to advices here.

A neutral traveler, returning from Berlin, declared that the "man on the street" there is nervous and is beginning to reckon on the ultimate defeat of Germany.

Admiral Von Capelle to Quit. Paris, Aug. 7.—Southern German newspapers announced the resignation of Admiral Von Capelle, minister of marine, is imminent.

1919 German Recruits Called.

With the French Army in France, Aug. 7.—The German crown prince is now engaged in reconstituting his shattered divisions behind the lines with the aid of the remainder of the 1919 recruits, in the opinion of General Mangin, whose army played such a brilliant part in forcing the German retreat from the Marne. Some of the German divisions which took part in this battle suffered a reduction of company strength to fewer than fifty men, some of the companies being still further depleted in numbers.

Minnesota soldiers who are so bravely going forth to make the world safe for Democracy—singing as they go—are proud of their own home state.

They will do their part as loyal Americans and proud Gophers. Uncle Sam can count on the boys at the Front. They will always be ready and willing to do their full share—but, how about those of us behind? Are we backing up the boys in the trenches?

There are many ways by which we can daily prove our loyalty—one of the best is by putting up our money.

Minnesota's statewide W. S. S. Pledge Week campaign begins June 6th. Let's do our duty by the boys from this state at the front.

Pledge War Savings Stamp Purchases for the Year

When we buy W. S. S. we are not giving our money. No indeed, Uncle Sam is merely asking us to loan our money. In W. S. S. the government offers the best investment in the history of the United States—four per cent compounded quarterly.

War Savings Stamps are the answer of a great republic to the demand for a democratic form of Government security. They are the bonds of the people—bonds that all of us can buy. They have behind them the entire resources of the Government of the United States. They steadily increase in value from the date of purchase until the date of maturity—and this increase is guaranteed by the Government. These stamps are issued in two forms—25 cent stamps and $5.00 stamps.

Buy Thrift Stamps at 25 cents each and War Savings Stamps every month in the year.

How You Can Help: What to Save and What to Use

(Published by The Federal Food Administration for Minnesota.)

Three times each day every American has opportunity to be of direct, practical help to the men on the battle-front.

NATIONAL PROGRAM.

SAVE SUGAR. Two pounds per person per month is the American honorration. Try to eat less and add to the National surplus for canning. Do this that the fighting forces may be kept fully supplied, and that England, France and Italy may receive their greatly restricted requirements.

SAVE BEEF. Food for fighting men. Save the large carcasses for them by restricting yourself to small cuts, by-products and trimmings—heart, tongues, livers. We have enough increase supply of pork this summer to permit economical expansion in its use, to relieve the pressure on beef.

SAVE WHEAT. Keep on saving, though the harvest is large. Build up war reserves by persistent conservation. Without American wheat saved from the last harvest the Allied cause would have been lost. The margin next year must not be so narrow.

USE FRUITS. Take advantage of the natural sugar in fruits. Can without sugar, or with little sugar. Add sugar later, when it will be more plentiful. Dried fruits, such as raisins, dates and figs, have much sugar in them. Use honey, maple products and sirups when available.

USE VEGETABLES. Make local vegetables fill as large a place as possible in your diet, thus conserving not only meat and wheat, but transportation and labor. Don't use canned goods now, while the fresh are available.

USE DAIRY PRODUCTS. Always give the children plenty of milk, milk products and eggs. Use them yourselves freely now, and thus conserve meat for export.

USE FISH. New species are being popularized and supplies increased. Eat this nutritious but perishable food several times a week and let the non-perishables go abroad.

RESULTS: OUR EFFORTS DURING THE FISCAL YEAR 1917-18 SENT THE ALLIES 18,844,600,000 POUNDS MORE MEAT AND FATS AND 80,900,000 BUSHELS MORE CEREALS THAN DURING 1916-1917. FROM AMERICAN SOURCES OF SUPPLY ALSO 1,956,400,000 POUNDS MORE SUGAR WAS SHIPPED THAN THE PRE-WAR ANNUAL AVERAGE.
